Chief Warns Of Burglars, Bogus Salesmen Here

Due to the recent wave of burglaries in the vicinity, homeowners must take added precautions, warned Chief of Police John H. Stroh early this week. "With many local residents planning trips over the Christmas holidays, burglars are likely to have a field day unless adequate precautions for home protection are taken," said Stroh. He promised the utmost cooperation from the police department but said the individual must help himself, too, by not leaving an invitation to burglars in the form of open doors or windows, or flimsy locks. Besides burglars, added the chief, the holiday season brings a great influx of petty crooks who represent themselves as salesmen. The latest twist to this racket is the sale of advertising for non-existent newspapers or magazines. "Reliable salesmen or representatives will never hesitate to show credentials to prove their identity," said Chief Stroh. "If in doubt, you can call the police and we'll check on them for you," he added.

Entry To House Without Warrant Asked By Chief

Blaming drunkenness as the cause of many broken homes, Police Chief John H. Stroh asked the City Council at its last meeting to amend the present city ordinance to give police the power to handle many of the cases in which he says they are at present helpless. Under Chief Stroh's proposal the ordinance would be amended so that it would be unlawful for any person to be intoxicated on private premises or in any private house to the annoyance of any other person.

Police are powerless under the present law to control disturbances in private dwellings unless a complaint is signed before the City Judge. Stroh pointed out that most of these disturbances occur at night when court is not in session and many complainants refuse to sign complaints the next day fearing bodily harm from the guilty party. The new law would provide for police entering a home on verbal complaint from within the home and the officer adjudging that the party is intoxicated may make the arrest without a warrant being issued. Many communities have such a law and have been enforcing it for a long time, said the chief. The council approved his recommendation and instructed the City Attorney to draw up the necessary ordinance.

Suspect Held In Burglaries

Preliminary hearing on burglary charges against Thomas Stevens, alias Thomas Stewart, 53, 807 El Redondo, Redondo Beach, will be held before Judge Otto Willett in Torrance Municipal court at 2 p.m. today.

Stevens was arrested last week by Police Sgt. Willard Haslam at the Redondo Beach address. According to Chief John Stroh, Stevens has confessed to two robberies in county territory nearby, one in Redondo Beach, one in Long Angeles and one in El Segundo.

He has a record of previous convictions in the east. Approximately $1,000 worth of stolen goods was recovered, including items identified by Frank Blake, 5342 Sharynne Lane, as having been taken when his home was burglarized Nov. 16.

Police arrested Stevens on a tip from Bill Ferris, superintendent of the Seaside Ranchos housing development where Stevens was formerly employed as a painter. Following the Blake robbery, Stevens visited the housing project and Ferris identified Stevens' car as the same one he had seen near the scene of the burglary.
